

NEWS RELEASE

For Immediate Release

Contact: John Douglas
571-451-2874

NORTHERN VIRGINIA RESIDENT AND AREA CEO MYRL WEINBERG RECEIVES NATIONAL HONOR FROM COMMUNITY HEALTH CHARITIES

ARLINGTON, VA (May 26, 2010) –Myrl Weinberg, a resident of Great Falls, Virginia, was awarded the Outstanding Community Service Award by Community Health Charities of America at its 12th National Annual Meeting & Community Leadership Conference held recently in New York, New York. Ms. Weinberg, CAE, is President of the Washington, DC, based National Health Council, a non-profit organization that provides a united voice for people with chronic diseases and disabilities and their family caregivers.

Ms. Weinberg has provided leadership and constructive guidance to the health charity community for more than two decades. As president of the National Health Council, Ms. Weinberg's career has focused on health, medical research, long-term care, and related issues that affect persons with chronic diseases and disabilities and their family caregivers. Many of the 57 charities that are members of Community Health Charities of America are also members of the National Health Council.

During her service to the Community Health Charities of America Board of Directors, Ms. Weinberg served as chair of the Income Development Committee from 2007-2009. As chair, she led the development of standardized planning tools and resources for the organization's 36 affiliate offices, increasing contributions to its member health charities.

Through her volunteer leadership with organizations such as the Better Business Bureau Wise Giving Alliance, Independent Sector Nonprofit Sector, and American Society of Association Executives (ASAE), she has earned respect as a trusted counselor in the area of non-profit management and accountability.

“Community Health Charities is extremely fortunate to have benefitted from her active involvement over the past six years. She has brought relevant, timely and valuable information to key board discussions and decisions,” said Thomas G. Bognanno, President & CEO, Community Health Charities of America.

About Community Health Charities

Community Health Charities works in partnership with 57 of the nation’s most trusted health charities through its network of 36 affiliate offices. Together with its member charities and corporate partners, Community Health Charities works to improve the lives of people affected by a disability or chronic disease by uniting caring donors in the workplace with health issues and causes important to them and their families. A full listing of the Community Health Charities membership can be found on the organization’s website at www.healthcharities.org/member-charities. For more information, please call 800-654-0845.

#